DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 14, 16, 17, 24-30, 32-34, and 36 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Yamada et al. (5,628,700).

In Re claims 14 and 25, Yamada disclose a CVT comprising: a pulley shaft (23,24) supported by a first and second bearing (see fig. 1); an oil supply passage (see fig. 2) that includes a radial oil passage (24h₁, 24h₂); a movable sheave (55); and a cylindrical member (54b₁) attached to the shaft, wherein the radial oil passage is formed outside of a portion of the shaft between the two bearings, an outer surface of an inner cylindrical portion of the movable sheave contacts and slides on an inner peripheral surface of the cylinder member, and there are no radially extending oil passages between the bearings.

In Re claims 16 and 17, see spline portion (24a) and oil passage (24h₁).

In Re claim 24, the apparatus of Yamada et al. appears to operate in this manner.

In Re claim 26, it appears that a load applied to the movable sheave can be transmitted to the cylinder member.

In Re claim 27, see fig. 1.

In Re claim 28-30, see spline portion (24a) and radial oil passages (24h₁, 24h₂).

In Re claims 32-34, see oil passages (56a,56b) and spline portion (24a).

In Re claim 36, see figs. 1 and 2.

Allowable Subject Matter

Claims 15, 18-23, 35 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. Specifically, the limitation defining the location of the bearings on either side of the sheaves is deemed allowable.

Response to Arguments

Applicant's arguments with respect to the claims have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
